

PhD Workshop

Discourse in the Data

Decoding European Political Communication

April 19 2024, University of Amsterdam
with Prof. Dr. Christian Rauh

In an era of frequent crises in Europe, effective political communication is essential. Political leaders must master crisis communication to inform and lead their constituents. The "Discourse in the Data" workshop focuses on quantitative and qualitative text analysis in European political communication. It explores how to apply these methods across different sources for better understanding political discourse at the national and EU levels.

We invite early career scholars engaged with topics relating to (crisis) communication strategies at both the national and EU level to apply by submitting an abstract describing your methodological approach to political text analysis in Europe.

- Funding: Travel and accommodation expenses will be covered by the DIA for all participants (limited to 5-6 spaces).
- Application: Submit your abstract (max. 250 words) along with your CV to l.j.herbig@uva.nl by 15 February 2024.
- Paper Submission: Complete working papers should be sent two weeks prior to the workshop for pre-circulation.

For any further inquiries or clarifications, please read the detailed call for papers here or feel free to contact us via email (l.j.herbig@uva.nl).
